

Does this sound right?

From:

dominique.blanchard@pco-bcp.gc.ca

To:

Nancy Hamzawi <nancy.hamzawi@canada.ca>

Date:

Fri, 02 Oct 2020 07:39:16 -0400

- * In an interview with Global on Thursday, Health Canada chief medical adviser Dr. Supriya Sharma said Canadians will have to wait until 2021 before the Abbott ID NOW tests are available for use. Dr. Sharma noted that the first shipment is expected to arrive in Canada in the next couple of weeks, with up to 2.5 million arriving “into the early part of 2021.”
- * She cautioned that much hinges on the company’s ability to manufacture the device and its testing supplies.