Hello team,

We just spoke to Minister Anand's office about a new advisory council on industry and supply in response to the COVID-19 situation. They will be seeking to identify key figures in essential services and supply chain sectors to join together on a council to advise the minister on procurement in this new time for industries and service providers deemed essential. This seems like it will be far reaching, outside of just medical supplies and related items - think everything from homeless shelters to institutions that provide a public safety function to Canada Post.

The purpose of the council will be to provide guidance on identifying, securing and moving these supplies quickly. They want to announce this panel in about a week and a half - in concept and at least announce a Chairperson at this time.

The council will be somewhere between 7 and 12 people.

Looking for any suggestions the team may have on interesting people to serve here based on people you have heard of or seen before.

Thank you,
Nadia
