I understand your frustration, Jeevan. I know it's a long slow process and it can be hard to handle.

I will continue to pass along your requests and keep on top of the department as much as possible.

Thanks for understanding.

Best,

Chelsea

Hi Chelsea,

I just BCC'ed you the email with procurement so you are aware of what we are sending them and what I am dealing with. You can have a look at the catalogs as well, these are all serious players. This is honestly getting ridiculous, I see these joker brokers with contracts that have not been able to fulfill for close to 16 weeks with zero accountability. I am sitting here with all the supply in the world looking in from the outside getting frustrated while our procurement gets nowhere. We got a 100k gowns last week, at this rate we should be able to procure everything in 25 years. I have close to 6 million gowns per month reserved ready to be produced for us and another 15 in the pipeline that I can go get...

Excuse the rant, this is the mild version lol. I'll touch base next week if I don't hear anything from you to see how we can escalate this.

cheers

J
