no worries at all, I know you are busy partner.

I guarantee you they are trying to buy time, usually, the process is catalog, product selection, follow-up detailed information. Either way, I will jump to the detailed information part. already sent them one vendor, I have the information for the rest but I need to get some time to get it together. We are in the middle of fundraising for my core business which is also very time-consuming.

cheers

Sorry I didn't get back to you, but I've pushed your response to their request.

To be fair, I don't think they're trying to buy time, they do need this information for their processing. But I will push them to get back to you asap.

Thanks,

Chelsea
