Hi
I have nurses in my family and I have nurses as friends and nurses who are going to school and youth that I have mentored.... so this is important to me... this is why I am emailing you...

Over 4 weeks ago, my friend Ivan, who owns Bosmelia Inc. applied online as a distributor of PPE products. Bosmelia has been dealing with Chinese companies for a very very long time and it is a Chinese owned business. All the factories that they work with has all the Chinese Certifications necessary to export PPE products to Canada and all the products from these companies are CE, FDA or FFP2 Certified. Bosmelia refuses to represent any sub-par products.

I found out my friend who owns Bosmelia can get Masks and other PPE's by accident, I needed some masks before it was advised that people should wear masks in public. So, I was able to get a few boxes for personal use from him... My level 3 masks, feels like cloth, that is how thick it is... This is why I am so confident that he can supply great products... And supplying great products to keep my favourite sister-in-law and my cousins safe at work is vitally important to me, since they will not stop working.

I am emailing you because of all the news articles I have been seeing the last few days from items provided by the government that has been recalled back. I urge you to speak to Bosmelia or your procurement department to speak to them. I would be happy to facilitate an introduction if you can have one of your representative email me back. I asked them about their pricing, so let me give you an example of their pricing for your reference.

Procedure masks 65 cents each
Surgical masks $1.60 each
KN95 $1.70 each
N95 -FFP2 - $2,40

I am not sure if this is expensive, but it's his prices.

Thank you for your time, looking forward to hearing from you soon
Therese Guidolin
