Subject: Procurement Call - May 24

Follow Up Flag: Follow up
Flag Status: Flagged

Hello – please see below for some updates from tonight’s call:

PSPC:

- One PPE plane on Friday
 - 756k gloves, 1.5m surgical masks, 100k gowns
- One PPE plane on Saturday
 - 9m surgical masks, 390k+ pairs of goggles
- Three PPE planes on Sunday
 - One was a non-GC chartered plane via Proline
 - This is the world’s largest plane
 - It landed in Mirabel on Sunday morning & had over 500k gowns
 - Two additional GC chartered planes
 - 4m surgical masks, 1m+ pairs of gloves, 200k gowns
- CanSino vaccines are still with customs in China
 - Embassy has a mtg tomorrow
 - Officials continue to store the vaccines in dry ice so that they keep
 - Assuming they get through customs tmrw, they can be put on a flight on the 27th

PHAC:

- Gov of China’s donation of 50k N95 masks tested & passed with 99.29% efficiency; will move to allocate
- Warehouse received the following this weekend: 3.2m surgical masks, 1.7m face shields, 391k gowns, 5.6m nitrile gloves, 1.29m other gloves, 250k swabs
- P/Ts are reluctant to accept certain kinds of N95s (reluctance is essentially towards everything that isn’t 3M, but discussions are ongoing)

ISED:

- Contract with fourth domestic supplier for 10k vents (Art McDonald design) signed over the weekend
- CAE has submitted their HC package for approval meaning 2 / 4 domestic vent companies now have their materials in with HC
- Innovative solutions Canada was closing up a challenge on rapid test kits – they’ve narrowed applicants down to four firms who are going through final due diligence between w PHAC & NRC
 - Goal is for successful companies to be notified by the end of this week (May 29); could be up to four

Other:

- GM contract for surgical masks will hopefully be signed & ready to be announced in the next 24 hours
- Officials said they would follow up w info on what regulatory action is being taken re: MDEL holders, such as Tango, who have provided masks that have consistently failed standards

Thanks,
Sabrina
