Maybe too many so(s) when I look at it.

And we've signed a contract for millions of syringes, so when a vaccine is ready, we are too.

Maybe a small change on the vaccine piece? No one really knows when or if it'll be ready, so something like this instead?

Change: And we've signed a contract for millions of syringes so we're ready for when we have a vaccine.

And we've signed a contract for millions of syringes, so when a vaccine is ready, so are we.

Update on personal protective equipment: We've received over 100 million surgical masks and nearly 40 million gloves, and we continue to send supplies to the provinces and territories. And we've signed a contract for millions of syringes so we're ready for when we have a vaccine.

We're also funding four Canadian companies working on what may be breakthrough solutions for COVID-19 rapid testing, and we're helping a company set up a test kit manufacturing facility in Ontario. We'll keep working to make sure we have what's needed to keep you safe.

Update on personal protective equipment, testing, and more:

→ We've received more than 100 million surgical masks and nearly 40 million gloves, and we continue to send a whole range of supplies to the provinces and territories. We've also signed a contract for millions of syringes so that we have the supplies we'll need when a vaccine is ready.

→ We're funding four Canadian companies who are working on what may be breakthrough solutions for COVID-19 rapid testing: Deep Biologics in Guelph, Nicoya Lifesciences in Kitchener, Fourien in Edmonton, and Metabolic Insights in Kelowna. We're also supporting Precision Biomonitoring as they set up a test kit manufacturing facility in Ontario.

As we restart the economy, demand for supplies will go up - and Canada must be able to keep up. So we're going to keep working with the provinces and territories to make sure we have what's needed to keep you safe.
