Yes it was supposed to leave for shipping today but technically it was "held up" up until this morning because 3M was waiting for a signal and they weren't going to send without that signal.

Just to confirm though - this 500k order is not for Ontario - it is for the federal stockpile. Ontario will likely get some of it though given how urgent their needs are.

See tweet below. Was the shipment technically "held up"? Or was today always the shipping day?

#BREAKING:

@globalnews has confirmed @fordnation misspoke this morning during media interviews...500,000 masks were held up by U.S. officials yesterday. The Ontario government has since received confirmation that they are being released.
