On export restrictions on PPEs. This is what my team has said

"I have heard rumours of potential US export restrictions on PPE. I was in touch with US chamber this afternoon who promised to send some info tonight. They heard this is under consideration and one of their member companies has further details so I'm hoping to connect directly tonight or tomorrow. There will apparently be a mechanism through which countries can apply for an exception but I don't have the details yet."

On the legislation - see below.

Subject: RE: 3M concern over Dem legislation for PPE

Hi Angus,

The bill is S. 3568 - the Medical Supply Chain Emergency Act, though the text is not available yet – we will forward it to this email group when we get a hold of it. The bill is so far co-sponsored by only two Democrats, Senator Murphy (D-CT) and Senator Schatz (D-HI). We do not expect it to have legs with the Republican Majority and expect the Senate will recess after the third stimulus bill is passed (WSHDC will report on this) – with all efforts focused on the stimulus bill, any standalone bill is unlikely to advance given the current environment. You can access Senator Murphy's press release here.

In parallel, and for your awareness, Rep. Levin (D-MI) announced the introduction of a bipartisan resolution with a similar objective. It is not clear at all that it will find enough and timely support in the Senate and in any event, the resolution would not be binding.

We will be in touch.

Best regards,

Jérôme

Just to be sure we are all on the same page, this is what we are being asked to look into, particularly regarding any potential impact on exports to Canada.

Subject: 3M concern over Dem legislation for PPE

Hi there WSHDC,

We have been asked for info on a bill introduced (perhaps today?) by Chris Murphy regarding the nationalization (or other government intervention) in the personal protective wear supply chain. Views on the likelihood of success and any other analysis as well as advice on whether this should be raised by the DPM in discussions with USTR or others, would be appreciated.

With thanks,

Angus
