Hey Brett, the copper mask is interesting and we're looking into that as an item. We have a cloth mask RFI that went up on Saturday seeking interest for production of between 5M-50M masks and we're looking to see what kind of response we'll get from industry. We ordered our first cloth masks for DND last week, but a relatively small amount (I think roughly 70,000).

Also, I don't know if anyone has heard more about Alberta planning to give out a mask a week to its population starting late May? I would be interested in how they're doing distribution.

Leslie is going to look at options. Challenges include scale - 5.5x the pop and delivery would be interesting.

Millions of Hong Kong residents have signed up online for a free copper filter mask from the government, that can be reused and washed up to 60 times. The HK government plans to distribute 8 million of the masks, including 2 each for every school child. pic.twitter.com/G26n4Nx3qh<<https://t.co/G26n4Nx3qh>>
